Problems

- Moral responsibility argument not effective
- Lack of understanding of triggers and motivations
- British public only driven by price and convenience (You could say lazy)

... Continued

- 🌍 Eco-friendly seen as low quality and expensive
- 🌍 Environment is now main stream conversation (Even politicians fly green banner)
- 🌍 Still not main stream action
- 🌍 Government targets hold back

Remove Choices

- Bulbs
- Plastic bags
- Packaging materials
- Electrical products
- Nappies
- Fuels

Building Regulations

- Radical reform
- Eco-friendly technologies
- Higher levels of insulation
- Reduced water usage
- Scandinavian standards

Explain the Savings

- Simple case studies
  - Type of house / premises
- See installations as investments
- Companies need decisions to add up
- Financing should be available

Subsidise Installations

- First 100,000
- Netherlands and Germany
- Encourages installations
- Increases players in market
- Reduces price

Tax, VAT and Income

- Sales slow : Low tax take
- Removal reduces price
- Reintroduce VAT when mainstream
- Increase domestic production income
- Bring in line when mainstream

Conclusions

- Radical policy is required
- See global warming as health and safety issue
- Precedents have already been set
- Politicians have to take a lead, stop thinking about re-election
